

Hi Tom,

Thanks for reaching out to us and letting us know about your situation.

It is unfortunate that you weren't able to complete and submit your Project 6. And I understand that it is really hard to juggle things but please be advised that we can only allow 48-hour extension and if you still won't be able to submit your Coursework then the maximum we can offer would be a one-week extension from the original deadline.

However, upon carefully checking your records, it appears that you have exhausted all these extensions. So I'm afraid that we won't be able to approve your request and will might withdraw you from our Program due to our Policy, but no worries, we can transition you to Observer status.

As an Observer, you will still have access to course materials, including session recordings, enabling you to stay engaged with the content without the requirement for regular attendance and meet any deadlines.

Here are the details of what being an Observer entails:

- You will get access to the full course material.
- You are not required and will not be able to attend any instructor-led sessions.
- You are not required to submit any assignments and do not have to meet any deadlines.
- You will not have access to the Slack announcement or career-center channels
- You will have access to the session recordings of the most recent cohort through our course learning portal.
- You can no longer attend the Emerging Engineers Summit unless you are a completer of another CodePath course.
- You will not receive the certificate of completion.

We hope you understand that Observer status is the only accommodation we can offer if you're unable to meet our Submission Policy requirements.

Should you have further questions, please don't hesitate to reach us back.

All the best,

Trisha
